

About us

Inkspired is an online platform that connects emerging writers and readers, allowing them to discover, read, write and publish creative stories and book series, while also growing their author's career.

Our offer

Inkspired is a fully-functional and multilingual integral solution for writing and reading fiction online. We are proud to offer services to help authors create quality stories and deliver readers tailored recommendations of independent books for their next read on the go.

We have an ecosystem of multiple apps, both in web and mobile versions that cater to readers' needs, as well as tools focused on helping authors write better stories and let them to publish in many ways at their own pace.

On Inkspired we aim for quality rather than quantity.

Clients

Inkspired provides professional services to emerging writers on its website, having developed a platform that connects them with online video courses and services on-demand.

Plus, we offer a yearly subscription for professional authors that grants exclusive access to our Writer App: a specialized smart tool for authoring. We aim to offer this service along with a white label version of our web platform to institutions in the near future.

Objectives

We want to be the number 1 reference for online writing and reading of fiction in Latin America. We also aim to help our authors grow their professional careers, by having an impact on the quality and reach of their stories.
